VOL. XXI.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1893.

NO. 82

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—The Arions Swiss Bell Swingers will be at the opera house Dec. 13.

—W. H. Travis, an aged and well-known citizen, died Saturday night.

—Caz Garland was placed in jail Sunday, charged with having burned Mr. Bowling's house.

—J. H. Marlow is very bad off with typhoid fever, and the doctors have but little hope of his recovery.

—Dan Lovel didn't have a single solitary prisoner Thursday and Friday, the first time since he has been in office.

—Charlie Gumbert was called to Cincinnati Thursday to attend the funeral of his brother, who died after a two days' illness.

—Ed Melvin, who married Miss Amanda Moore, is the proud and happy father of a sweet little baby boy. Grover is his probable name.

—Elisha Bowling, the wealthiest man in the northeastern part of Laurel county, suffered the loss of having his house burned Thursday night.

—Craig Gragg is not dead by a great big lot. Although there is a bullet hole clear through his body, he was on the streets of Pittsburgh Saturday. When a doctor told him he was certain to die, he replied with the assertion that he "was not going to do any such a blank, blank thing."

—George A. Begley, formerly a citizen of this county, was killed in Clay county on Red Bird creek, on the 6th inst. Mr. Begley was attending a sale of some property when he got into a difficulty with Lee Wages, who shot him. Felix Bowling was also in the difficulty and received a slight wound in the neck. Wages was painfully wounded in the shoulder.

Resolutions of Respect to the Memory of James M. Cook.

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from the life that now is, to the life beyond death, our brother James M. Cook, on the 7th day of December, 1893, and whereas, this lodge of A. F. M., No. 184, of which he was a most worthy member, keenly feels the greatness of his loss, and desiring to place upon our records a suitable expression of our appreciation of his virtues, as a memorial to his untarnished character, therefore,

RESOLVED 1st, That in the death of our brother, J. M. Cook, we recognize the providence of God, whose wisdom is unquestionable, and whose right to rule and govern his own creatures are humbly acknowledged, and accept the great loss in the death of our brother, as designed to perfect his happiness in a better life, and to impress upon the hearts of us who remain, the importance of being also ready.

RESOLVED 2nd, That in the life of the deceased we see the embodiment of an honest man and sincere Christian; a neighbor whom all men loved, a citizen whose life was ever ready to respond to the highest good of his country. That in every relation in life he met its obligations cordially, and made for himself a character spotless and pure.

RESOLVED 3d, That he hereby assure the family of our deceased brother of the sincere sympathy of this lodge for them in their loss of an affectionate father, as also in the pride it affords us in recognizing in him a good name more precious than gold, and a character bequeathed to them, brilliant with honor, and untarnished and above reproach.

RESOLVED 4th, That the members will wear the usual badge of mourning thirty days.

RESOLVED 5th, That these resolutions be placed upon the records of this lodge, and published in the INTERIOR-JOURNAL, and furnished the family of the deceased.

DANVILLE.

(Advocate.)

—Farris & Whitley sold to Simon Weihi 160 head of export cattle at 4c delivered, Saturday.

—Mr. John T. Thurman, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. W. Thurman, of this city, and Mrs. Annie Morrison, a handsome young widow, of Lexington, were married Tuesday.

Joseph LeBrandt, who assumes the leading comedy role in "Is Marriage a Failure," which appears at Walton's Opera House, Saturday, 16th, is essentially a character comedian whose methods are original, refined and free from rough play. His conception of the character of Corydon Foxglove, the eccentric old lawyer, whose cupidity allows him to marry for money, is described as extremely amusing. For four seasons, two of which were spent in metropolitan cities, Mr. LeBrandt has been identified with this character, and his success continues unabated. He is surrounded by a company of clever artists, including the beautiful and accomplished actress, Mrs. Joseph LeBrandt, and talented child artist, Little Irene.

—The postoffice at Nipp, Rockcastle county, will be discontinued after the 15th.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. A. V. Sizemore will fill his pulpit here at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning, and at Logan's Creek in the afternoon at 3.

—A Sunday-School pupil on being asked what lesson was taught by Lot's wife turning into a pillar of salt, replied: "It teaches us not to be too fresh."

—Rev. W. J. Ward has accepted a call to the First Baptist church at Moberly, Mo., and ordered his paper changed from Hamilton, Mo., to that place.

—Rev. John Allen, the holiness preacher of California, tells the people of Centralia, Mo., that nightily greet him that in all probability time will be no more after 1896, certainly not later than 1899.

—The congregation at the Presbyterian church voted by an overwhelming majority to retain Rev. W. A. Stagmaker as pastor, but he has not signified his intention yet. Everybody hopes he will remain.

—Rev. Sam Jones has severed his relations with the North Georgia Conference, as Bishop Haygood decided that there was no law under which a preacher could resort to evangelical work as a specialty.

—The Courier-Journal says that in Louisville there are, including chapels and Catholic altars, 209 places, with a capacity for 72,700 people. That is to say that 72,700 persons in the city of Louisville could go to church at one time.

—Rev. H. C. Morrison is drawing large crowds to the meeting at the Methodist church, which seem greatly interested in the Gospel he so eloquently and earnestly expounds and the prospect is that there will be great revival of religion. All the other churches gave up services Sunday night in respect to the meeting and the church could hardly hold the people that thronged to it. Services are held daily at 10:30 a. m. and 6:45 p. m.

—The Versailles Sun says that Uncle Joe Hopper's meeting there continues with additions every day. Last Sunday 25 were baptized, and hundreds are attracted to his meetings by his "old fashioned religion," who have not been inside of a church for years. His simple and earnest way of telling Christ's love for the sinner is more effective than oratory and eloquence, and the Sun considers him the equal of any evangelist in the land.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Mr. Robt. Aurtin died Friday of pneumonia, and was buried Saturday.

—Mr. Letcher Owsley has secured the position of local correspondent for the various daily papers.

—The grip epidemic seems to be getting worse. Most every one you meet can tell you what's best to take for it.

—The remains of Eld. J. C. Frank were temporarily buried in Mrs. Dan Anderson's lot. Later they will be taken to Flemingsburg, their final resting place. Eld. Frank left an estate valued at $18,000.

—Miss Francis Griffin, a noted temperance speaker, will deliver a free lecture at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Children's Loyal League. Everybody is invited.

—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Dunn, of Danville, have been visiting relatives here. Col. D. R. Collier, of Louisville, is in town. Miss Alice Fox Young, who came home sick from school in Virginia, is convalescent. Uncle Joe Weisiger, who has been quite ill with typhoid fever is much better.

HUBBLE.

—Everybody has killed hogs and we now have a season of rejoicing.

—Turkeys seem to be going off low and slow, on account of no money among the laboring class in the city to buy them.

—Mrs. Duncan's horse became frightened at the train a few days ago and it was reported that in trying to get out of her carriage and hold the horse she was pretty badly used up, but we are glad to state that it is not as bad as reported.

—Mrs. M. G. McClure, of Casey county, is with her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Hammonds, for a few days while on her way to visit her son in Lexington. Billy Latin is in the neighborhood with his old gray and spring wagon looking for a location. Billy looks very natural and it is to be hoped that he will come back.

—Frank Holtzclaw and wife are the happiest people in the neighborhood since Dr. Cook presented them with a fine girl. It is said that W. H. and wife are already imagining that it can say "grand pa and grandma." Moses Miller has moved to the Col. Underwood place.

—Uncle Greenberry Bright has taken winter quarters with his son, Squire Bright. James Blackerby is the champion corn husker. He says he husked 13 shocks before dinner the other day.

—The Four Seasons hotel will open again Feb. 1, the difficulties existing between the American and English members of the directory having been adjusted.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—Our minstrel troupe visited the city of Crab Orchard Saturday night, and gave an entertainment.

—We were wrongly informed about Mr. Talbott's renting Mrs. Egbert's store, which is still vacant.

—Mr. Charles Redd is in Manchester winding up his wife's estate there, left her by her brother, Mr. Gilbert.

—There is no photographer here now, as Mr. Cable has decided not to come, having gone into other business at Mt. Vernon.

—There will be memorial services at Walnut Flat next Sunday to the memory of Rev. R. H. Caldwell, of whose goodness too much can hardly be said.

—We have had a sweet little namesake at Mr. Charles Redd's for three months, and were only made aware of the fact by its mother Saturday. So you may know we feel very proud. She is a little beauty, and as bright and sweet as pretty.

—Mr. R. H. Bronaugh has been quite sick for the past week with something like flux, but is better. Mrs. Pence and daughter, Miss Florence, have been with Mrs. J. H. Stephens and Mrs. Lawrence this week. Mr. Holdman Stuart is mingling with old friends after a lengthy stay in Pittsburgh, Ky., where he has been in business. Mrs. Margaret Gomye has been sick for three or four days.

Hustontville Christian College.

[ADV.]

—The desk at which the principal of Christian College writes is over 90 years of age. It is of solid walnut and is a highly prized specimen of antiquated furniture.

—Jones Baughman, from Kentucky University, spent Thanksgiving at home. Jones has made a wise choice in selecting Kentucky University, in which to complete his education. No school in the South ranks higher.

—The astronomy class in Christian College has traced about 25 constellations. Misses VanArsdel and Clay are experts in this line and are making this highly instructive and profitable to the class.

—Christian College is to have a Normal Department, beginning Jan. 22d, and continuing 18 weeks. The record that Christian College has already made in preparing teachers for this work should be sufficient inducement for all teachers to avail themselves of this rare opportunity.

—Miss Donaldson, of Spencer county, and Messrs. Donaldson, Courtney and Newman, from Kentucky University, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Jennie Carpenter. A few young friends in the neighborhood met them and all were royally treated at a most sumptuous dinner.

—Christmas has already begun in Hustontville. The stores are filled with a nice selection of goods, and flocks of children from every quarter are gathering to look and spend their "change." The counter at Weatherford's looks as if old Santa-Claus had unloaded his whole train there.

—The entertainment at Christian College on the evening of Nov. 30th was a success in every way. The chapel was crowded and a number left not being able to get even standing room. The exercises consisted of recitations, plays, drills, etc. We have not space to mention each performance separately, but we feel fully warranted in saying that the rendition in each case was almost perfect.

—The Jolly Little Waiters seemed to captivate the audience, the acting and singing showing first class training. The music was of an elevated character and reflected much credit upon Miss Barnett, a most efficient teacher in that department at Christian College.

The finest train in America is conceded to be the Southwestern Limited via BIG FOUR ROUTE to New York and Boston.

This magnificent Wagner Train has been built especially for service between Cincinnati, New York and Boston, running through solid to these cities without change of cars. Composed of Elegant Coaches, Wagner Sleeping Cars, Library and Cafe Car, and Hotel Dining Car it has become famous. Complete in all of its appointments it is to-day the "king of the road."

It leaves Cincinnati at 6:00 p. m. daily from Central Union Station, making connections with all through trains from the South and lands passengers in New York City at Grand Central Station, avoiding ferry transfer. When you go East take this train.

D. B. Martin, General Passenger and Ticket Agent.

E. O. McCormick, Passenger Traffic Manager.

A Missouri girl decorated her room with pictures, and perched her best fellow's photographs on the topmost nail. She then sat down to admire her work, and smilingly remarked: "Now everything is lovely and the goose hangs high."

—Three negroes were lynched in Alabama Friday night, two for the same murder.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Louis Patton, an aged and well-known colored man, died Friday.

—On account of the inability of some of her relatives to arrive, Mrs. Hawkins was not buried until Friday afternoon.

—Jake Hommelstein, the merchant who came from Jerusalem to this place, will open a branch store at McKinney on or about Jan. 1.

—A number of our people will go to your town Saturday night next and see what they can find out about that perplexing question, "Is Marriage a Failure?"

—Madam Rumor says that one of our young merchants will take unto himself a wife in the person of a beautiful blue-eyed country lassie ere the merry holidays have come and gone.

—Wesley Cook, the negro charged with "conjuring" the Danville darkies, has been lurking in our midst for a week or more. Our colored population is keeping an eye on him and was unto him if he tries his "hoodoo" game on any of them.

—Some miscreant or miscreants continue to worry our people by discharging dynamite bombs in and around town. It is sincerely hoped that the rascals will be caught up with and be made to pay dearly for their fun or rather madness.

—It is related of Mr. Tone Huns, who recently moved to Columbia, that he has changed his abode 40 times in the 20 years of his married life. "They" also say that on the 1st of January and July his chickens which have been moved so often, cross their legs and patiently wait for their master to come and tie them.

—While driving a young horse the other day Mr. Samuel Reid and daughters, Misses Helen and Jennie, met with a mishap which nearly scared them out of their wits. The colt, all of a sudden and without any apparent cause, began to rear and plunge and turning suddenly smashed a wheel. This threw Mr. R. and daughters out and the old gentleman lighted on his head. The road was muddy, fortunately and very little damage was done him or the young ladies.

—Mrs. R. H. Young, of Louisville, and Mrs. Dr. Lee F. Huffman, of Lexington, are guests of their relatives, the Misses Cook. Mr. R. S. Tucker, who several years ago suffered a severe paralytic stroke is very ill and her recovery is considered doubtful. Mr. Butler, who has been confined to his bed for several months with a genuine case of typhoid fever, is rapidly improving. Mr. Time Cook and son, Will, of Garrard, have been guests of relatives here. George Weatherford has quit business at Richmond and is here with his parents. Tom Neat, of Columbia, and W. L. Evans, the commercial tourists, spent Sunday with their best girls here.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that State during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful.

EVERY FRIDAY.

Upon the Legislature, now in session in Virginia, will devolve the election of two United States Senators, one for the long term to begin at the end of the term to which the late Senator Barbour was elected, and the other to fill the vacancy until the end of that term, and which is now being filled by Senator Eppa Hunton by appointment. After a considerable struggle, Hon. Thomas S. Marlin, of Scottsville, was nominated by the democratic caucus, receiving 66 votes on the last ballot to Gov. Fitzhugh Lee, 56, or three more than was necessary to a choice. As there is not a single republican in the Legislature, of course this action will be promptly ratified, and it is thought that Gen. Hunton will be permitted to fill out the unexpired term. Later news says that the friends of Gov. Lee are both surprised and mortified at his defeat and charge "undue" influence was exerted with a number of the members who are out for the stuff. An effort is being made to disregard the nomination and elect Gov. Lee when a vote comes before the Legislature, but it is hoped that wiser counsel will prevail. As in war and love, so in politics all is fair, and it is the stuck pig that is first to squeal.

The House killed the bankruptcy bill 142 to 111. We have been getting along very well without a bankruptcy law since the last one went out of effect. Originally intended to protect honest debtors, it got to be the resort of every rascal who did not want to pay his debts, and between his dishonesty and the receiver's fees the creditor was left to groan, usually getting nothing, while the scamp retained nearly all of his property. Scoundrelly debtors have loop holes enough now to get out of paying their dues. They do not need such a law help them in their rascality.

MAYOR DUNCAN got turned down by the city council of Lexington in his recommendations for members of the school board. The list included the name of one woman, who was formerly employed by the mayor in the counting room of his newspaper, and whose names cruel scandal-mongers have coupled in a way not complimentary to either. The latter indignantly denied, but all the same the council is opposed to vindicate the lady at the expense of the school board, and quite a storm of indignation has been raised in the capital of the blue-grass.

EVEN in Chicago a jury ignorant enough to try the assassin Prendergast is hard to obtain and after nearly a week's trial the panel is incomplete. The prisoner is trying in every way to corroborate his plea of insanity and as usual in such cases is over doing it. The question of guilt being entirely eliminated, the insanity dodge is solidly relied on to save his worthless neck. We do not believe that the scamp is insane, but insane or not, the halter is mighty good medicine for his complaint.

DISPATCHES from Plano, Texas, tell of the blowing up of the safe of the National bank there by robbers, who secured all the money and other valuables worth stealing. One report is that the robbers got $10,000, and another that they got fully $50,000. Mr. T. C. Jasper, late of this county, is cashier of the bank, and much of the stock is held here. W. P. Tate owns 40 shares, George Carter 50 shares, and numerous parties in the West End have smaller amounts.

THE case of Rev. Howard, the clerical scoundrel who swindled people all over the country by making them believe that they had large fortunes left them in England, is attracting great attention. It is being tried at Jackson, Tenn., with such witnesses as Robert T. Lincoln, late minister to England, and other distinguished characters, and the prospect is that the pious fraud will do a long term with stripes on for his rascality.

It is a pleasure to observe that the Frankfort Capital is to continue after old man Johnson hies himself to Chicago. George L. Willis will become its editor, and as there is very little about the newspaper business that that bald headed sinner doesn't know, we may expect to see his genius scintillate in its columns.

THE Walton Observer is the latest Kentucky paper to ascend the fume. Its days on earth were but three and six months, which was sufficiently long to demonstrate one of two things—that it did not fill a long felt want, or that its originators and projectors were failures in the accepted idea that everybody can run a newspaper.

THE latest news from Honolulu is that the deposed queen says she had rather have $500,000 than to be placed again upon the throne. The Hawaiian matters seem very much mixed, but we hope and believe the administration will come out on top.

THE Louisville Critic doesn't take any stock in Gov. Brown's dramatic efforts against the C. O. & S. W. consolidation with the L. & N., and sensibly says: "The L. & N. is not an oppressor. It is a builder up. It is an encourager and fosterer of legitimate enterprises. It has done more for Kentucky than all the governors and legislators since the State has been organized. This demagogic attempt to curtail its growth and usefulness will fail. The C. O. & S. W. will be brought into first class condition by the L. & N. The section of the State which it traverses will be benefited by a better service. Without the L. & N. Kentucky would be a howling wilderness. It has brought her resources before the world, opened her mines, linked her fertile fields to the markets of the land, and in countless ways helped and strengthened her. If the demagogues must have something to yelp about, let them pick out some enterprise that is a detriment to the State."

THAT public office is a family snap is again demonstrated by the appointment of Henry Kremer to succeed his father as wharfmaster at Louisville. Henry used to be a legislator and slept with Gee Dawson on a memorable night.

Hess, Henle & Co., the Louisville notion house which recently failed, will not pay over three cents on the dollar. The penitentiary is the proper place for such swindlers.

—The Columbian souvenir coin was a losing experiment. It not only failed to realize for the World's Fair the premium confidently expected, but the directors have had to pay into the United States Treasury $40,300 to defray the cost of recoining into ordinary silver currency the $1,700,000 worth of souvenirs left on hand.

—Miss Mamie Ryan, of Geneva, Wis., has sued Prof. Birkholz, a Chicago hair dresser for $75,000. Miss Ryan used Birkholz' medicine with success, and the "Prof." spread broadcast, pictures of her "before and after using" which, she alleges, are so misleading as to her personal appearance that they have damaged her to the extent of the above sum.

The Henderson Gleaner says of the "Is Marriage a failure?": "It is a bright, clean comedy, and depends on witty lines and comical, though not exaggerated, situations for its mirth-provoking qualities. The principal characters were sustained by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Le-Brandt, who proved themselves capable artists. Little Irene is simply a gem, and her singing and dancing brought forth rounds of applause. The supporting company is excellent, and the orchestra superb. We hope this clever company will visit us again."

Chesapeake & Ohio Railway will, with one accord, raise its scenery and train service. There is nothing in the way of lovely mountain views and picturesque valleys of the Virginias, to compare with that through which the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad passes. There is nothing of historic nature in America as great as a trip through the Virginias and there is no other railroad in America superior to the C. & O. in the smoothness and stability of its tracks, the F. F. V. Vestibule Limited being one of the famous trains of the world. The Chesapeake & Ohio passes through Bull Run, Manassas and other noted battle fields and is in all respects the best route for the West, North-West and South-West to the National Capital. A REMARKABLE LINGUIST.

Greek and Latin Conjugations in Place of Nursery Rhymes.

Professor Joanna Baker, the Iowa linguist, avoided the fate of average prodigies who blossom early and die shortly after. The prime of life found her established in a useful career as instructor in Greek languages, literature and philosophy at Simpson college, Indianapolis.

All the arguments against early drill in languages were upset in her experience and the result seems to indicate that the German method of putting children at Latin and Greek is not so cruel after all. The sight of troops of boys of 10 and 12 in the common schools of Germany, poring over Greek and Latin grammars with spectacles on, brings an ache to the eyes of most Americans, especially since some famous educators cast out the classics as unessential, and if ancient languages are to be left wholly to specialists it is a satisfaction to know that the pursuit does not involve sure martyrdom.

Miss Baker's parents taught her Greek and Latin conjugations for amusement as soon as she could speak clearly. The rhythm was as attractive to baby lips as that of Mother Goose, and she learned them as thoroughly as children do nursery rhymes. In her fourth year she studied Greek, Latin and French systematically, a short lesson each day. Even then she had ample time for the amusements suited to her age, and before she was 8 years old she had finished all the primary books in those languages and finished them thoroughly. Her father and mother both knew the tasks they set the child and were able to guide her, for they were teachers of experience. Besides the conning of textbooks the young miss read in Xenophon, Homer, Caesar, Virgil and the fables in French. At 12 years of age she had added something of Herodotus, Demosthenes, Salust and Cicero and then took up mathematics. In 14 she had read Edipus Tyrannus in Greek and made a lexicon of it with critical notes on the text. At the age when most boys enter college Miss Baker had read all the Greek and Latin of a college course, and while yet in her teens was appointed tutor in Greek at Simpson college. About that time she began the study of music and German and also published an original literal translation of "Plato's Apology," which was a credit to scholarship. In 1882, at the age of 20, she graduated at Cornell college, with a degree. After one year within its walls, having already passed some years at Algona college and at Simpson as a student. Four years later she entered De Pauw university and was graduated with the degree of A. M. after two years' study, and was elected instructor of Greek and Latin in that institution. After filling the position one year she returned to Simpson college and took the chair of Greek, which her father had held during her early childhood.

It is a pleasure to add to this remarkable story the fact that its heroine was not compelled to sacrifice all that makes life worth living in order to become a great linguist. Her musical abilities were cultivated to a high degree, family and social ties were kept warm, and the outside world as well as her college associates knew that the woman's soul was not starving while her head pushed eagerly on to the conquest of ancient and medieval lore.

Needle Book.

The cover of this needle book consists of 2 pieces of ivory celluloid, 2 inches by 3. A round hole is cut near each end of one side of each piece, and the corners of the opposite side are rounded off. The leaves are made of thin pink or white felt, cut in graduated sizes and notched around three edges, or they may be of flannel bound with thin taffeta ribbon and feather stitched. They are fitted evenly between the two pieces of the cover and are fastened in by means of pink baby ribbon which is drawn through the holes in the back edges of the cover and tied in two bows. The face is ornamented with a tiny water color sketch of wild roses.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

Women and Men—Profit For Women In a Good Business Men.

Early in the month of October our market man told us that eggs had already risen in price so that we could only get 11 for 25 cents. They will probably be no cheaper than that in New York before next spring, when warm weather comes. The fashionable white Leghorn eggs are even higher. They bring fairly dizzy prices all the year around. During the Christmas holidays the price will go up still more, until at times eggs will be 3 and 4 cents apiece—that, too, not the fancy fresh laid, but just the output of the plain, common hen. At times it will be impossible at some of our groceries to get them at all. The demand for eggs for table use rapidly increases. There seems a disposition among civilized people to use less meat and more eggs and milk. If I were a woman out of employment, I should select some spot near a good market and go very cautiously into the egg business. Any woman can learn it who has patience and pluck enough to earn her living at anything else. For egg production I should select the rose comb Brown Leghorn fowls. At that calling they beat all other hens. For broilers and egg laying both I should get the handsome Plymouth Rocks. Then the Light Brahmas are excellent winter layers and make heavy birds for roasting. With these three breeds the poultry woman would be equipped. If only one kind could be kept, then it should be the rose comb Brown Leghorn for egg production, since eggs are the article that is scarcest all the cool and cold weather. A warm henhouse is wanted for the winter. The poultry books and hen papers will give so much information that even an amateur can succeed who has common business ability. Of course there will be many discouragements, and three women out of four will give up before success comes. But to the fourth woman who holds on, success is sure and an independent, healthful occupation, with a happy home. The wise thing for the hen woman to do is to find private customers, such as hotel and restaurant keepers, for her wares. A very little capital is required, and two ladies might go in together on the co-operative plan.

Here is one of the indignities and insults that women must put up with because they cannot vote: A woman teacher may give all the best years of her life to the public school at the small salary that affords a plain living. She may be more capable than she ever was in her work, but as soon as she reaches the age of 50, perhaps before, the masculine board of education sneeringly observes that it wants "fresh blood and youth in the women teachers." She must step down and out into the world to begin all over again or be dependent on some grudging relative for her living. Perhaps some of the very men who turn her into the street went to school to her and owe to her teaching all the little intelligence they ever had or will have—it matters not. It matters not either that 50, "the youth of age," is the time when the human being who has lived right is just coming into the flower of his life intellectually and is more capable than he ever was before. Nothing of this counts. Out the crushed, insulted woman must go. The thoroughly mean and fendishly low down part of the thing is that a man school principal or teacher of the same age is never discharged. I know at this moment a board of education that systematically weeds out the lady teachers approaching middle age, when at the same time year after year it keeps in office a cranky old male principal who is now 75 years old. Women teachers, you have no vote. You have no voice in the selection of these men who thus barbarously dispose of you. This and this only is the reason why you are turned out.

Long public documents and reports must be indexed, and much depends on the knowledge and skill of the indexer. It is gratifying to read that the leading indexer in all Great Britain is a young lady, Miss Nancy Bailey. She is now employed in making out the index to the parliamentary debates published officially in Hansard's Guide. The importance of the place the young lady holds may be judged from the fact that W. T. Stead wrote to her as follows: "I would prefer to index Hansard rather than have a seat in the house of commons."

Chicago alone has no less than 20 women lawyers. Ireland has one, Miss Egan, who lately obtained the degree of LL. B. from Dublin university. She passed her examination with first honors.

Harmony and peace between husbands and wives will come when the two sexes are entirely independent of each other pecuniarily. There is no other way. To obtain this perfect pecuniary independence for herself should be the task to which every woman should now set herself.

A demand for trained library assistants has arisen, and the day is nearly over of the gum chewing, impudent girl who refuses to wait on you when you know the books you want are in and who only cares to earn a few dollars a week till she gets money enough together to buy her wedding garments. At Drexel institute, Philadelphia, a library class has been established, which will henceforth train young women to be real librarians, polite and intelligent. English literature and cataloging are two of the main branches of instruction.

Miss Helen Shafer, president of Wellesley college, has been made an LL. D. by Oberlin college, where she was graduated.

A limited but well paying field for women's industry is that of designing book covers. Mrs. Whitman of Boston gets from $25 to $50 for one design.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

FEEDING WOOL.

A Sheep's Wool Must Be Nourished, or It Will Drop Out.

Dropping the wool is a frequent trouble with sheep. There are many different explanations of this annoyance to the flock master, but few of these hint at all the fact that wool must be fed, or it cannot grow, and any failure in its nutrition must result in such a weakness that the fleece fails to keep up its connection with the skin, and thus drops off as if it were severed—as it really is—at its root.

The fleece of a 100 pound sheep makes up 10 per cent or more of the animal's weight, and it consists of a far greater proportion of the most exacting elements of nutrition than the flesh of the sheep does. Flesh has 75 per cent of water in it; wool has only 15 per cent. The flesh has in its dry matter the following elements, and wool has the quantities set opposite to them. Thus the composition of flesh is: Carbon, 51.83 per cent; hydrogen, 7.57; nitrogen, 15.01; oxygen, 21.37; ashes, 4.23. Wool—Carbon, 49.65 per cent; hydrogen, 6.93; nitrogen, 17.81; oxygen, 22.11; ashes, 2.0; sulphur, 2.0.

Taking into account that the wool has only one-fifth as much water in it as the flesh, it is easily seen that it requires five times as much of the elements of nutrition for each pound weight as the flesh, and thus, if the fleece of a merino weighs 15 pounds, and the carcass, after shearing, weighs 75 pounds, equal quantities of food are required for the production of each. This is perhaps never thought of by any feeder of the flock, for so far it seems to have been completely ignored by all writers upon sheep husbandry, and yet the importance of it is paramount. The common ignorance of these urgent demands of the fleece for special nutriment is doubtless why the sheep suffers so much from the exhaustive requirements of the wool.

As the fleece must be supplied after the animal itself, the wool suffers while the sheep escapes, at least to some extent, and as the wool cannot exist without its necessary accompaniment of the yolk and grease, which naturally protect it from injury by the rains, heat or cold, this is to be considered as calling for requisite nutriment as well as the actual body of the animal. It is worthy of note, too, that as wool contains considerable sulphur this is also to be provided in the food.

Every time the sheep is underfed or suffers from any other cause, it appears in the wool, the fiber of which shows a thin place in it, and each of these weak spots represents a fault in feeding on other part of the management. This weakness in the fiber is ruinous to the wool, as it causes it to break in the carding or combing, and thus become too short for the spinner and fit only for felting. This defect is known by the woolen manufacturers and buyers as "break" and makes it unsalable. Consequently the matter of feeding and the regularity of it are special points to be regarded by the shepherd. Yet it must not be supposed that the wool only suffers. The sheep must necessarily suffer, for the damage to the wool is only one of the visible signs of injury to the whole animal.

In estimating the amount of food necessary for a sheep, all these points are to be taken into account, and the gross weight of the animal is to be increased for estimating the allowance of food by the proportion to be added on account of the extra dry substance of the fleece. To be on the safe side, it will be quite reasonable to add to the live weight of the sheep fully 100 per cent—that is, to double the weight and estimate the ration accordingly. The normal allowance of 3 per cent of dry matter per 100 pounds of carcass may thus be doubled without any fear of overfeeding.—S. Henry in American Agriculturist.

Live Stock Points.

"Wisconsin mutton leads the world," is the jubilant announcement of the Cotswold, Oxford and Shropshire breeders of that state. Their announcement is based on the statement that at the Columbian exposition Wisconsin took more sheep prizes in proportion to the number of animals exhibited than any other state in the Union or any province of Canada. Canada got away with an appalling lot of these prizes, however.

Sandy soil with an undulating surface is one of the best kinds for poultry.

Winter lambs are usually wanted to be born in December. To make them arrive on time the best ewes to breed are 2-year-olds that have had no lamb before. To lamb the first of December they should be bred in June to an old ram if possible. When necessary to breed old ewes for winter lambs, they should first be made to skip one season and not be bred till summer.

If you have not planted trees to make shade for your stock in the pasture fields and around the spring, now is the time to do it. Plant the trees, take care of them a few years, and you will be richly rewarded. Get those that grow rapidly and spread their branches far out. Even fruit trees can be made to answer this purpose of shade if their branches are trimmed up out of reach of the animals.

There will be a December show of fat stock at the Union stock yards, Chicago, early in the month. Don't forget that.

J. S. Woodward, a breeder of market lambs, says he has found Dorsets harder than Shropshires. They are certainly more prolific.

Eight pounds of wheat a day is the proper quantity of concentrated food for a dairy cow.

An old mare will pay off a mortgage, and this has often been done. One farmer wipes out the mortgage by means of hogs; with another the cow pays it, while still another accomplishes the same result with small fruit culture or rearing early lambs. Each farmer must study the situation for himself, taking note of his soil, of the markets, distance from market, what products are most salable in his part of the country and finally of what particular branch of farming or live stock rearing he likes best and is most successful in. This last is by no means a small consideration.
